It was his first trip just after his victory in the first round of the presidential election last Sunday. Emmanuel Macron has planned 6 sections in his policy on disability

Emmanuel Macron went to the hospital Raymond Poincaré de Garches to meet experts and specialists of the Handicap Tuesday 25 April. It was his first trip just after his victory in the first round of the presidential election last Sunday.

Emmanuel Macron has planned a section in his policy program on disability, which has evolved recently with the presentation of 6 major axes, which are:

Objective 1: Increase the participation of people with disabilities in social life.

Objective 2: Improve daily life for everyone. (Increase AAH by 100 €) We will reduce the poverty of people with disabilities.

Objective 3: We will improve access to employment for people with disabilities.

In France, there are 130,000 disabled workers and 500,000 people with disabilities are enrolled in Pôle emploi.

Objective 4: Make a special effort on prevention, primary care and research.

Objective 5: Helping caregivers.

We will encourage respite for caregivers.

Objective 6: Disability at the center of our action.

Systematically define inclusion indicators for each public policy. It is a question of sharing, upstream, clear and precise objectives in all fields to better evaluate, downstream, the impact of the public policies decided upon.

Marine Le Pen, has devoted a large part of its political program to the handicap, since the beginning of her campaign...

Emmanuel Macron and Marine Le Pen, as well as Jean Luc Melenchon, Nicolas Dupont Aignan and Francois Fillon, are the only ones who have devoted part of their presidential project to the disability. It is surprising to see that people with disabilities resume 12 million francs, of which 10 million vote! The only reason for opportunism and seduction of voters could have attracted more interest from candidates, given the deterioration of the accessibility situation to jobs and key positions, not to mention the mobility of people with disabilities. . More than 500,000 disabled people are unemployed in France and suffer the double punishment of discrimination in key positions (politics, show biz, media, and especially politics), as well as the daily difficulties. France, a country of human rights, remains one of the countries of the G20 late in the face of the deplorable situation of people with disabilities. For this reason, the "Paralyzed Association of France" had alerted the presidential candidates, and organized the march of the forgotten as well as other collectives to sound the alarm.

Yesterday, meeting with the patients and the nursing staff of the hospital of Garches. Our challenge is a change of mentality of everyone on the problems of the handicap. " Emmanuel Macron explained about his vis at Garches Hospital where he stayed an hour to dissous with été disabled area.-----
